

Peter Varga

Peter Varga is the Director of the National Centre for Spinal Disorders in Budapest and Chairman of AOSpine Hungary. His particular interest lies in the reconstructive management of primary tumours of the entire spine and pelvis for which he has received international recognition. His extensive practice sees patients with complex tumours from across the globe. Further interests include deformities of the adult and paediatric spine as well as degenerative disorders and the supervision of numerous research projects.